La Mer is renowned for its luxurious skincare products, primarily due to its meticulous sourcing of ingredients. The brand emphasizes the use of high-quality, natural elements, which are often harvested from the ocean. One of its signature components, Miracle Broth™, is derived from hand-picked sea kelp, sourced from the nutrient-rich waters off the coast of Vancouver Island. This kelp undergoes a unique fermentation process, enhancing its skin-soothing properties.

La Mer's commitment to sustainability is evident in its careful selection of ingredients. The brand collaborates with local communities to ensure responsible harvesting practices that protect marine ecosystems. Additionally, La Mer employs a range of botanicals, such as various seaweeds and other marine extracts, which are chosen for their beneficial properties. By focusing on these natural sources, La Mer creates products that not only nourish the skin but also reflect a deep respect for the environment.
